About the Arboretum

Being green is the Arboretum’s business every day. Named by USA Today as “one of the 10 great places to smell the flowers.” Ranked as a top metro area destination by Explore Minnesota. Visitors of all ages and ‘green’ interests — garden lovers, nature explorers and outdoor enthusiasts enjoy the Arboretum year-round. As part of the University of Minnesota, the Arboretum is a community resource and international leader in horticultural research, environmental and plant conservation and education.
The University of Minnesota Landscape Arboretum can help you better serve your residents and clients by encouraging them to spend more time in nature, which, according to scientific research, benefits the mental processes of attention and memory in adults.
