

CHRIS LENHART

BS, Notre Dame

MS, University of Wisconsin-Madison

PhD in Water Resources Science, University of Minnesota

Chris Lenhart is a research professor in the environmental group within the Bioproducts & Biosystems Engineering Department at the University of Minnesota. His research involves studies linking hydrology, stream geomorphology and ecology. Previously he worked for 10 years in government and consulting, including stints with NOAA and a local watershed district.